"Xmas greetings" comes from the pen of Mrs. Wm. Clements, Jr., who is having such a nice visit with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Maud Miller, in Canada.

George Millerick, of San Francisco, and his sister, Mrs. C. Jensen little daughter, Jeanne Kathrine, of Berkeley, were guests of the home folks over Xmas.

Good news comes from the sick room of Mrs. A. Converse, who is confined at the St. Helena Sanitarium. Mrs. Converse, before her marriage, was Miss Adeline Monroe.

Miss Valeria Helberg, who entered the Hahemann Hospital, a little over three months ago, has just received her cap. The many friends of this popular girl will be glad to hear that she is doing well in her new profession.

Mr and Mrs. Ernest Arbogast, formerly of Schellville, extend holiday greetings to their many So-nomia Valley friends. Mr and Mrs.
Arbogast are comfortably situated at the Hotel Huntington, Pasadena, Cal., at which beautiful resort Mr.
Arbogast has accepted the position of chef.

Mrs. Emma Ashbach, who had been visiting San Jose friends for the last three months, has returned to her home here, and enjoyed Xmas dinner at the cozy home of Mr. and Mrs. Mont Akers. Miss H. E. Ditton, of San Francisco, an old friend of the popular postmaster and his good wife, enjoyed the holiday dinner also.

The Index-Tribune has received, through Congressman Wm. Kent, an assortment of vegetable seed for free distribution to its readers, and as the supply sent us is rather limited, it will be well for those wishing seed to call early, in order that more may be secured from Washington if needed.

Owners of dogs, remember that, on and after January 1st, the license will be two dollars per year instead of one dollar as heretofore. Call on City Marshal J. A.
Albertson before the day is over and pay for the privilege of retaining your pets within the city limits, and save a dollar.

L. Homeier, the well-known San Francisco violinist, has been enjoying the holiday week, a guest at the Henry J. Wicker home.

Monday next, January 4th, the first two carloads of the products that will form part of the Sonoma County exhibit at the World's Fair in San Francisco will be shipped by Edward H. Brown from Santa Rosa. These cars will be followed by others until the entire exhibit is in place. Sonoma County will make a proud exhibit, and when completed it will rival any display made in the great California building.

The Don Theatre is to present an especially fine attraction the first week in January--the 5th and 6th--in portraying Daniel Frohman's charming and romantic drama, "The Prisoner of Zenda," in which James K. Hackett is the star. The production is in five reels of pictures, and the patrons of the popular playhouse are already anticipating viewing the pictured story of love and adventure.

Their many friends deeply regret that the holidays were greatly saddened for Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ger-icke and family by the death of the lady's niece, Miss Anna Roche, who passed away at her home in San Francisco, Wednesday of last week, December 23d, after an illness of several months. Mrs. Ger-icke and daughter, Miss Marguerite, were in attendance at the funeral obsequies of their beloved young relative.

Among the relatives to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. Ferdinand Erlich were her three children--Mrs. Harriet McKeon, Mrs.
Amalia Vance, and Fred Erlich, and a granddaughter, Miss Harriet McKeon. Mrs. George Bowers, who as Miss Etta Raschen, will be well remembered by Sonoma Valley residents, accompanied the party. The Raschens conducted the Union Hotel in years ago, and had hosts of friends here.

J. P. Weems, of San Francisco, has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Simmons during the week. Mr. Weems had been very ill of late, but we are glad to note that he is on the road to good health again. In the years ago, genial "Jimmie" Weems was one of the most prominent and popular men in the Sonoma Valley, and the old friendship exists as firmly as of yore in the hearts of his host of former associates.

O. E. Bremner, of Santa Rosa, a member of the Sonoma County Horticultural Commission, paid a visit to Sonoma last week to confer with the Sonoma Valley Chamber of Commerce and arrange for a meeting, to be held some afternoon during January, for the benefit of the fruit growers, farmers and poultry raisers of this valley. The meeting will be addressed by Mr.
Bremner and also by members of the Agricultural Department of the University of California.

The trial of the three election contests pending, viz.: J. F. Ryan vs. J. K. Smith, recount of votes cast for sheriff; Gallant Raina vs.
H. F. Doss, recount of votes cast for supervisor in the second district; J. M. Campbell vs. Lester Small, recount of votes cast for justice of the peace of Sonoma Township, was commenced in Judge Seawell's court Monday. The recount of votes in the supervisory contest will be conducted first; then in the justice of the peace, and lastly the sheriff's recount, as this contest involves all the votes cast in the county at the general election held in November. In the sheriff's contest Jep Valente for Ryan, and Wilson Hall for Smith, were named to take charge of the ballots.

Lawyer Fined for Contempt of Court

Considerable interest attaches to the legal fracas, in which Judge James Campbell and Attorney C. C. Cowgill, of this city, are the principals, and the outcome of the difficulty is awaited with deep interest by the friends of both gentlemen.

The trouble dates back to the trial before Judge Campbell of the suit of the Sonoma Valley Furniture Company against the Herald Publishing Company, at which the defendant in the action was represented by Attorney Cowgill.

On judgment being rendered for the plaintiff, Mr. Cowgill, it is alleged charged the Court with bias, declaring to his Honor, "You decided the case before the case came to trial."

The assertion was passed unheeded until Monday of this week, when Judge Campbell imposed a fine of $100 and one day's imprisonment on Attorney Cowgill for contempt of court.

Attorney Thos. J. Butts, represented Mr. Cowgill, petitioned Judge Seawell for a writ of habeas corpus, Tuesday, Attorney Butts contending that Judge Campbell had not legally followed the requirements of law. Mr. Butts further maintained that the language used by his client was not contemptuous. Judge Seawell, on the contrary, did not think the language could be construed to be a compliment.

Attorney Butts and Prosecuting Attorney Hoyle argued their construction of the law regarding the manner of procedure in contempt cases.

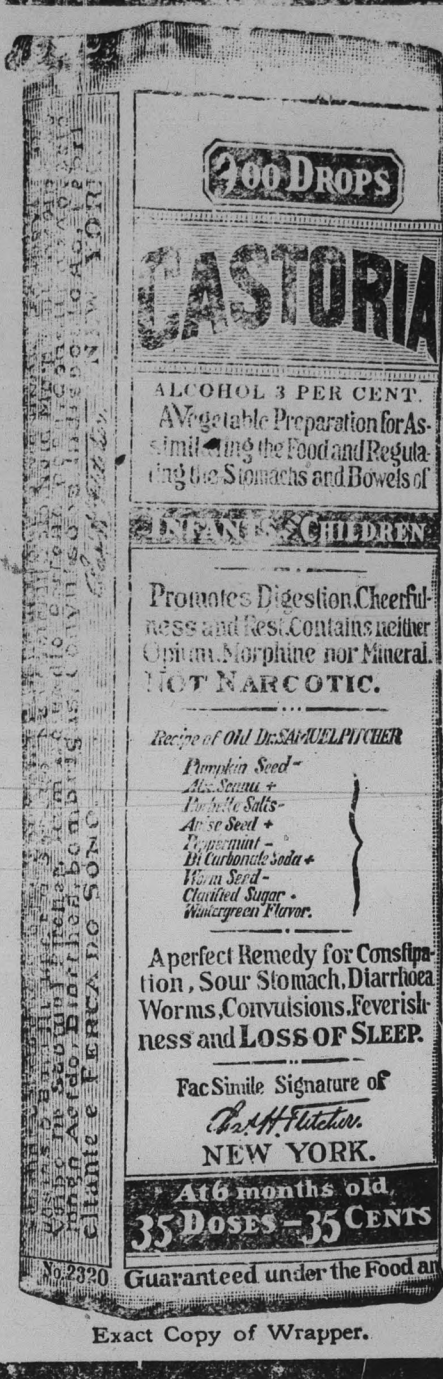

A fine point of law is involved in the action, and Judge Seawell allowed Mr. Cowgill to go on his own recognizance until Monday to look up authorities before passing judgment.

SONOMA RESIDENT DEAD

Thursday, December 24th, at her home in San Francisco, Mrs. Adolphina Ehrlich passed to eternal rest, the end of her well-spent life being a peaceful drifting into that last, unbroken sleep.

Mrs. Ehrlich was a native of Germany, aged sixty-years. In her childhood, she came to the United States with her parents, and California had always been her choice as an abiding place. The deceased was a pioneer resident of the Sonoma Valley, having lived with her family for twenty-eight years on the Otto Muser ranch, south of town.

Some twenty-five years ago the Ehrlich family moved from this valley to San Francisco, residing there continuously since.

In the death of Mrs. Ehrlich, there passed from earth a devoted wife and mother, and a true and worthy friend, who will be sincerely mourned. Mrs. Ehrlich is survived by her aged husband, Ferdinand Ehrlich, whose enfeebled condition did not permit of his attending the funeral. The deceased also leaves three children—Mrs. Harriet McKeon, Mrs. Amalia Vance and Fred Ehrlich.

The remains of the much-esteemed woman were brought to Sonoma, Saturday morning, and laid to rest beside her two children in Mountain Cemetery, the funeral services being conducted by Rev. Edwin F. Brown, of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

CARD OF THANKS.

The undersigned desire to express their heartfelt gratitude to our many friends and neighbors for their thoughtful ministrations and tender sympathy at the passing of our beloved wife and mother. We also extend sincere thanks for the many beautiful floral tributes placed upon her grave.

RYAN EFFECTS THREE CAPTURES

Before detaching his star, which has been worn throughout years of remarkable service by Peace Officer Jos. F. Ryan, the capture of three more offenders against the law was added to his record.

The first capture effected was that of John Burns, charged with breaking into the New Vineburg Inn, Monday night. The preliminary examination of Burns was held before Judge Latimer at Santa Rosa, who decided that Burns must answer for his crime before the Superior Court.

Wednesday morning, Patrick Hogan and George Edwards were taken into custody by Officer Ryan, they having effected an entrance the night previous into the winery of S. Sebastiani, taking therefrom two or three bottles of wine.

The actions of the two men had excited the suspicions of Mr. Ryan and on the evening of the occurrence he shadowed them about town, and watch their entrance into and work in the wine cellar.

Hogan and Edwards were taken to the county jail pending examination.

SUNDAY SERVICES AT THE CHURCHES

Congregational Church (T. M. PRICE, Pastor.)

Sunday morning worship at 11 o'clock.

A Christian is a living thing without a winter or a dormant period in his life. The Bible advises him in this manner: "We beseech ye, brethren, that ye increase more and more." We have reached a certain period of perfect growth at this season last year, but we have increased since then in a knowledge of God, and in stature of the manhood in Christ. Wherein do we know of our increase? To what does your increase amount in your knowledge? No one can tell but you. All we may know is what your fruit may show or the brilliance of your light declare. It is an awkward thing to keep doing the first works over, to keep on repeating, keep on playing the baby if you can do no better, but it would be nicer to see you grow a little. Begin the New Year right and give God every day what you owe him. We will talk about this next Sunday.

Mid-week service on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Y. P. S. C. E. meeting will be at 6:30 p. m. Everyone is invited to attend.

Evening worship will be held at 7:30 o'clock.

The Word of God to the young people is:—Rejoice in thy youth, but know that for all these things God will bring thee into judgment. You will love God if you know Him.

HAPPY EVENTS CLOSE THE OLD YEAR---JOYOUS FUNCTIONS FOR THE NEW

THE bells in the steeple are rolling and tolling
A requiem sad for the year that is dead,

For the one who is done, for the friend who has left us,

An elegiac strain for the days that have fled.

But, listen! The notes that were sad and despondent

Give place to sweet music of hope and of cheer.

The Old Year is dead, but the glad bells are telling

The coming of hope with the dawning New Year.

THE bells in the steeples are swinging and ringing

An anthem of joy and of hope and of cheer,

For time has not ended and efforts expended

Not in vain, for yet Opportunity's here,

And we'll labor and battle and push our way upward

In days that the incoming New Year will bring.

From the grave of the old one to the brave and the bold one

Success and achievement will certainly spring.

THE glad bells are ringing and hearts, be ye singing;

The world still is wide, and, lo, heaven bends o'er!

The past is behind us; its griefs shall not bind us.

The way still is open; the goal is before.

New Year, let us greet you; we're happy to meet you;

We're glad for the chance that you give us to strive.

With naught of regretting, past sorrows forgetting,

We'll be happy today and be glad we're alive!

Waltz-Pierson Nuptials

Love was given royal welcome at the picturesque country home of Rev. and Mrs. H. W. Waltz, Tuesday at high noon, when Mr. George Pierson, a rising young lawyer of Southern California, claimed as his bride charming Miss Rena Pearl Waltz.

The residence was beautifully decorated for the ceremonial, the bridal twin standing beneath a canopy of greenery during the celebration of the nuptials. The bride had the rare happiness of having the marriage service read by her father, Rev. Waltz, who was assisted by the Rev. Edwin F. Brown, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The bride was very lovely in a robe of white net over silk, and she carried a cluster of bride roses. Miss Marion Waltz, who attended her sister as maid of honor, was daintily gowned in pale green, and she carried pink carnations.

S. Wylie Winsor, of San Francisco, supported the groom as best man.

After felicitations had been showered upon the newly-wedded couple, an elaborate luncheon was served by the Misses Ruth Benedict, Sadie Dunbar, Myrtle Minkel and Lillian Johnson.

The bride, who is a highly talented and cultivated musician—both vocal and instrumental—is a young woman of delightful personality, with a legion of friends whose cordial good wishes for their happiness attend the bridal pair.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierson departed on the afternoon train for Hollywood, near Los Angeles, where the much-esteemed young attorney has a newly-built and cozily furnished home in readiness for the reception of his bride.

The Simmons Party

The home of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Simmons, on Second Street East, was the scene of a merry gathering, Tuesday night, at which their daughter, Miss Gladys, was hostess to her circle of young friends.

Christmas greenery, holly and mistletoe, with an abundance of the latter mirth-provoking foliage, adorned the beautiful interior, and myriad twinkling lights added to its festive appearance.

Miss Gladys was assisted in receiving and entertaining her guests by her parents, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Campbell.

Dancing was the principal form of diversion, and was greatly enjoyed by the jolly crowd of young people assembled. The serving of delicious refreshments added to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Those present were: Misses Nancy and Zoleta Bates, Mary Springer, Marie Helberg, Isabel Trudgen, Florence Desart, Eleanor Kehoe, Florence Green, Mildred Ranker, Aleta Franquelin, Henrietta Weber, Martha Landgraf, Evelyn Kinsella; Messrs. Ray Cooper, John Duhring, Paul Thomson, Joe McMullin, Percy Carmer, Fred and Will Helberg, Roy Johnson, Raoul Emparan, Ralph Evans, Lee Brubeck, Jas. Gottenberg, Jas. and Will Kehoe, Edmund Stillman, Emery Ranker and Otto Brant.

New Year's Eve Ball

Union Hall is fragrant with evergreen, ferns and other foliage which have been effectively combined with effective scarlet domes, glowing holly and festoons of crimson crepe paper.

Mesdames Lulu V. Emparan, Henry J. Wicker and Adam W. Adler, who have the affair in hand, have been untireless in their efforts to make a signal success of the Grand Ball to be given this—New Year's Eve—by the Sonoma Valley Woman's Club.

A more competent committee could not have been named, and the Club membership has no more active or thoroughly capable women than Mesdames Emparan, Wicker and Adler. Each is a host in herself, inherently artistic, and the beautifully decorated dance hall is an admirable reflection of their combined talent in effective arrangement of foliage and bloom.

Two of our handsomest and most gracious matrons—Mesdames Pauline McMullin and A. W. Adler—officiate as floor managers. Quite a novel innovation, too, by-the-by, and a departure quite appreciated by the several gentlemen who generously serve in this capacity when called upon.

Mesdames Lulu V. Emparan, A. H. Bates and H. J. Wicker are to serve as a reception committee.

The Pauli-Hansen Orchestra, augmented, will provide music of exceptional excellence, with a repertoire which includes the latest and most popular compositions.

A buffet supper is to be served by Mrs. P. Yenni in the lunch room connected with the main hall, thus affording the enjoyment of refreshments as early and as often as may be wished.

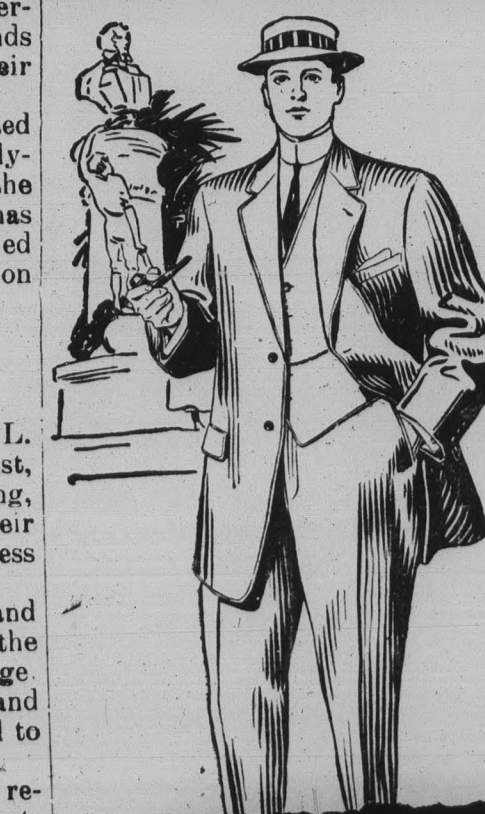

Christmas Services

The auspicious feast of The Nativity was fittingly commemorated in the St. Francis Catholic and worshippers thronged the edifice at both Masses. The altars were beautifully decorated, and the singing was most effective.

Miss Emily Poppe came up from the Berkeley University to enjoy the holidays with her parents, Attorney and Mrs. Robt. A. Poppe.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Clerici, of Crockett, spent the Christmas holiday and week-end at the home of the gentleman's brother, August Clerici.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brown (nee Miss Mamie Engelund) enjoyably spent the week-end with the relatives of Mr. Brown in the Guerneville district.

Miss Amelia Castagnasso spent Christmas at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Castagnasso. The young lady holds an excellent position in San Francisco.

Miss V. Hilton, of Sonoma, was the fortunate holder of the winning ticket on the beautiful doll, given away to the patrons of the G. H. Hotz dry goods house. Many were the disappointed little maidens in the Sonoma Valley after the drawing.

Miss Marie Clewe, who is training for a nurse in the Lane Hospital, San Francisco, came home for the holidays. The young lady's brothers—Prof. Friedo Clewe, an instructor in one of the Los Angeles high schools, and Ernest Clewe, who is practicing law in San Francisco—have also been holiday home visitors.

The drawing for the Indian motorcycle, on which tickets are given away to the patrons of the Henry Bates Gents' Clothing Store, will be held Monday night of next week, January 4th. That an opportunity may be given to all his customers to win this valuable cycle, Mr. Bates will give tickets to all who settle standing accounts before the drawing.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Boynton, near Boyes' Springs, was the scene of a jolly house party Christmas week. The guests comprised Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Riedy and family, viz.: Mr. and Mrs. C. Riedy, Miss Dorothy and Richard Riedy, all of San Francisco. Miss Dorothy was recently graduated from the Lowell High School, while her brother Richard had the distinction of completing his course at the University of California. Mrs. C. C. Riedy is the sister of Mrs. Boynton.

Dr. and Mrs. Irving C. Gobar are enjoying a visit from the Dr.'s parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. N. F. and Miss Louise Gobar, of San Juan. Dr. and Mrs. Gobar entertained, too, during the holidays, Mrs. Gobar's sisters, Mrs. Wm. Dasmann and two children, of San Francisco, and Miss Nell McDonnell, of Bakersfield. Elmer Gobar, of San Francisco, was also a holiday-week guest at the home of his brother.

Tabitha's New Year's Cakes

By CLARISSA MACKIE

[Copyright, 1914, by American Press Association.]

"ONE pound of sugar, three-quarters of a cupful of butter," droned Tabitha Ross as she bent over her great-grandmother's recipe book. "Goodness knows, these New Year's cakes take a heap of butter and eggs!"

"Elmer always went distracted over your ma's New Year's cakes," observed her neighbor, Mrs. Nip Tucker. "You haven't forgotten Elmer Lane, have you? I thought he used to be an old beau of yours, Tab."

"Oh!" Tabitha returned to her cake bowl and stirred vigorously. "How did you happen to think of Elmer Lane, Sarah? He hasn't been in Broad Brook for twenty years."

"He is here now."

Tabitha breathed a little faster, and her round cheeks became quite pink. "What do you think of that?" asked Mrs. Tucker impatiently.

"Two tablespoonfuls of caraway seeds," said Tabitha absently.

"Oh, pshaw, Tab! You needn't pretend you're not interested in Elmer Lane's homecoming. Why, the whole village is upset by it. He's been away for twenty years, and no one has heard a word about where he's been. All we know is that he quarreled with his pa right after Mrs. Lane died, and Elmer went away and never came back. Old Mr. Lane passed away crying for Elmer. And he has come home now, quite gray headed, and he is dreadful worn looking. He went right to the old house and locked himself in. He's been there twenty-four hours, and folks are wondering if anything's happened to him. The man ought to have something to eat and a fire. It's nipping cold weather to stay in an old house that's been closed for fifty years."

"I'm going to send you some of my cakes by and by," remarked Tabitha.

"We would miss 'em dreadfully if you didn't," returned Mrs. Tucker as she wrapped a blanket shawl about her sharp face and opened the door. "I s'pose we'll see you on your way to watch meeting, Tab?"

"Yes; I'll bring the cakes along when I come."

The door slammed, and a gust of icy air swept through the warm room.

Outside the snow was lying in froz-drifts almost to the window ledges. The afternoon sun caused a million sparkling atoms to dazzle the sight. Every branch and twig was clothed in ice and flashing fire.

Tabitha could look back through the years that had fled and see the same picture—and more. She saw a man's youthful, well knit figure leap the gate and come swinging up the garden path to the back door. In the kitchen were the fragrant smell of freshly baked New Year's cakes and her mother's tall, matronly form moving to and fro in the background.

The picture suddenly faded, and Tabitha found her eyes full of tears. She brushed them impatiently aside and went back to her baking, pling the great blue platters with the spicy oblongs of sweetness which she would divide with her neighbors, as usual, on New Year's day.

As she went to and fro Tabitha was thinking deeply. This was New Year's eve, and twenty years ago today Elmer Lane had disappeared from Broad Brook without a farewell. It was significant that he had returned home on the anniversary of his departure.

The rim of a full moon was just lifting above the top of Thimble mountain when Tabitha locked her door and started down the road toward the church, where the watch meeting was to begin at 9 o'clock. In her hand she carried a plate covered with a napkin. Under the napkin were a dozen New Year's cakes for the Tuckers.

When she reached the corner of Woodbine road Tabitha stopped and looked wistfully at the rambling old Lane house. The tall elms drooped icy branches over the snow covered roof, and there was an air of coldness and desolation that struck a chill at Tabitha's heart.

Almost unconscious of her own movements, Tabitha turned into Woodbine road and went to the sagging gate of the Lane place.

Up the snowy path was a single line of deep footprints.

There was no light visible, and the chimneys were outlined cold and stark against the starry sky.

"I will just peep inside. There can be no harm," Tabitha decided.

The snow was deep, and she walked with difficulty, fitting her small rubber boots into the man's larger footprints. Just as she reached the front porch she stumbled over the top step and fell headlong.

The plate of cakes spun out of her hand and fell with a crash of broken china against the front door.

"Grandmother Steele's willow plate!" cried Tabitha.

"Hang grandmother's graft! Are you hurt?" asked a man's gruff voice from the doorway.

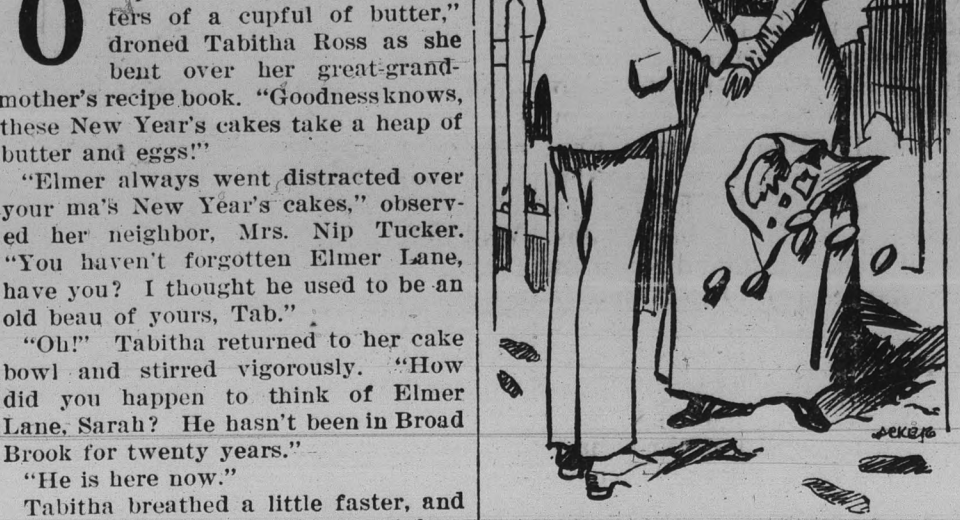

Strong arms picked Tabitha up and supported her for a moment.

"Who are you, and what are you doing here?" he went on curiously.

"Don't you know that this place has been vacant for five years?"

"Yes," whispered Tabitha. "It is quite a mistake. And do you mind picking up the napkin and the pieces of the plate? I must go now."

He moved away and began to pick the pieces of broken china out of the snow and ice. He gathered them into the napkin and brought them to

HE DROPPED THE CAKES IN THE SNOW.

ingly came the question, "Where is Tabitha Ross?"

Tabitha leaned against the door and put her hands over her wildly beating heart.

"Here—I am Tabitha Ross!" she admitted weakly.

In the silence that followed the church bell chimed a hurried summons to the watch meeting.

"You—Tabitha—here—tonight?" he whispered, dropping the cakes in the snow and taking Tabitha's hands in his.

"Oh, Tab! Tab! how I have wanted you all through the years, and I was too ashamed to come to you!" His voice broke.

"Tell me all about it, Elmer," whispered Tabitha, patting his arm.

Sitting there on the snowy steps of the old Lane house Tabitha Ross listened to the story of a man's life. What she heard, what she wept over, what she forgave, no one ever knew save those two, but when Elmer Lane had finished his story there was a wonderful smile on Tabitha's face.

"Elmer," she said softly, "you are a parting gift to me from the old years that have passed me by without my share of happiness. Shall we begin this New Year differently and, forgetting all that dead, buried past, remember that it is only the present that counts and the future?"

"And making each day perfect as it comes along will leave the years without regret," added Elmer gravely.

And the watchers at that meeting in the church were startled when they were called upon to witness a midnight wedding—the marriage of two whom the years had parted and whom the New Year had reunited.

NOTE ALL YOUR OLD ERRORS.

Some Suggestions For Starting Another Year of Life's Journey.

If you have most of us the custom of making an elaborate set of resolutions—all of them to be broken perhaps in a week—belongs to the past. It is by no means a bad idea to sit down and quietly think over their significance in calm retrospect. Such a view is indeed to be commended. Without making vain and foolish resolutions one may carefully note all errors and evade as many of them as possible during the next year.

If the past year has contained more tears than smiles, turn off the old page, wipe away the blot of mistakes, and throw it away. A clean new sheet, pure and white, lies before you. Forget to pity yourself so much and contemplate the condition of those more unfortunate. Cease your lamentations for bygone opportunities and plan for the future. Brace up! If the fates have been unkind to you during the past year try to turn the tables on them now. Do not be discouraged by your lot. Meet it and face it. It is not nearly so bad as it might be.

It is a good thing at the beginning of a new year, with the slate clean, to make an effort to rid yourself of that characteristic human mistake of putting too great a value on the opinions of others. Much of the misery or imagined misery of human beings has its origin in the most trifling circumstances. A negligible incident will, if brooded over, induce an attack of the blues that may last for days. Many women, and especially young girls just budding into radiant womanhood, frequently work themselves into a state of anguish through worrying over real or fancied wrongs.

To the Happy Little New Year

You bring us happiness, delight,
 Renewed each soul and heart tonight.
 Fair child of purity and grace,
 We liken to your soul and face
 A lily bright.

The old year dies; now roseate grows
 The dawn o'er mountains capped with snows.
 Your breath so faint, of fragrance rare,
 Your smiling lips we would compare
 To blushing rose.

Athwart the east a ruddy bar,
 Your father, Time, awaits your car.
 When you alight what glad surprise,
 What happiness, shines in your eyes,
 Bright morning star!

Oh, sweet and happy little one,
 To every weary mortal run!
 Lily and star and rose are you,
 And faith and hope you will renew Next New Year's morn'g.

Rejoicings Upon the New Year's Coming of Age

By CHARLES LAMB

THE Old Year being dead and the New Year coming of age, which he does by calendar law as soon as the breath is out of the old gentleman's body, nothing would serve the young spark but he must give a dinner upon the occasion, to which all the days in the year were invited. The Festivals, whom he deputed as his stewards, were mightily taken with the notion. They had been engaged time out of mind, they said, in providing mirth and good cheer for mortals below, and it was time they should have a taste of their own bounty.

It was stiffly debated among them whether the Facts should be admitted. Some said the appearance of such lean, starved guests, with their mortified faces, would convert the merry ends of the meeting. But the objection was overruled by Christmas Day, who had a design upon Ash Wednesday (as you shall hear) and a mighty desire to see how the old Dominion would behave himself in APRIL FOOL AND THE GUESTS.

The Vigils were requested to come with their lanterns to light the gentlefolk home at night.

All the Days came. Covers were provided for 365 guests at the principal table, with an occasional knife and fork at the sideboard for the Twenty-ninth of February.

Cards of invitation had been issued. The carriers were the Hours, two—little merry, whiffle foot pages that went all round and found out the persons invited, with the exception of Easter Day. Shrove Tuesday and a few such movables, who had lately shifted their quarters.

Well, they are all met at last, foul Days, fine Days, all sorts of Days, and a rare din they made of it. There was nothing but "Hail, fellow Day, well met!" Only Lady Day seemed a little scornful. Yet some said Twelfth Day cut her out, for she came all royal and glittering and Epiphanous. The rest came in green, some in white, but old Lent and his family were not yet out of mourning. Rainy Days came in dripping and Sunshine Days laughing. Wedding Day was there in marriage finery. Pay Day came late, and Doomsday sent word he might be expected.

April Fool took upon himself to marshal the guests, and May Day, with that sweetness peculiar to her, proposed the health of the host. This being done, the lordly New Year, from the upper end of the table, returned thanks. Ash Wednesday, being now called upon for a song, struck up a carol which Christmas Day had taught him. Shrove-day, Lord Mayor's Day and April Fool next joined in a glee, in which all the Days chimed in.

All this while Valentine's Day kept courting pretty May, who sat next to him, slipping amorous billets doux under the table till the Dog Days began to be jealous and to bark and rage exceedingly.

At last the Days called for their cloaks and greatcoats and took their leave. Shortest Day went off in a deep black fog that wrapped the little gentleman all round. Two Vigils—so watchmen are called in Heaven—said Christmas Day safely home; they had been used to the business before. Another Vigil—a stout, sturdy patrol, called the Eve of St. Christopher—seeing Ash Wednesday in a condition little better than he should be, then whipped him over his shoulders, pickaback fashion, and he went floating home singing

On the bat's back do I fly, and a number of old snatches besides. Longest Day set off westward in beautiful crimson and gold; the rest, some in one fashion, some in another, but Valentine and pretty May took their departure together in one of the prettiest silvery twilight Lovers' Day could wish to set in.

WHAT SHALL BE DONE TO INSURE A HAPPY NEW YEAR?

The best resolve to make at this season is to resolve to make others happy. This not only brings happiness to others, but to ourselves. It does not spring from the selfish desire to please ourselves by pleasing others, but from that proper self love which prompts us to do for others what we would have them do for us. In giving pleasure we receive pleasure, and thus the New Year is made brighter and happier for all.

Much Kissing on New Year's.

It was the custom on New Year's day for all the citizens, after they had called upon each other during the day, to visit the governor in the evening, men and women together, where it was the custom of the worthy Peter to bestow upon each of the wives and maidens a hearty smack, thus settling a fashion that was no doubt carefully followed by the rest of the men—Irving's "Knickerbocker's History of New
